BY FRIDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11.—Owing to the congestion in shipping, no more canaries are coming from Europe. Space aboard ship is extremely scarce, and necessities are receiving the first consideration, which at present leaves no surplus room for songbirds. The shipments of Hartz Mountain canaries ceased abruptly in December, just as the so-called "1830 period" was ushered into fashion with its old-fashioned parrots, hoop skirts and songbirds. Now there is a great demand for canaries on the part of the women of the nation, which makes the breeding of the little yellow songbird a profitable occupation.

Big Permanent Market
For the woman on the farm, and for bird-lovers in general, this is an attractive sideline. While a few individuals in all parts of the country are engaged in raising canaries, the supply thus produced is so much smaller than the demand that hundreds of thousands of birds have been imported annually, so that there is no doubt as to the existence of a large permanent market for them. They are more robust than turkeys, which after weeks of careful attention may become infected and the whole brood die at once; and the expense of their upkeep is not so great. A pair of birds, a breeding cage and a small outlay for food, under ordinary conditions, will yield at least a dozen selling birds in a single year.

The greatest factor in favor of bird-raising, however, is the little time required for the actual work connected with it, which makes it a practicable sideline. In Germany many of the peasants have canary rooms, and shoemakers, tailors and other tradesmen often double their incomes by breeding the birds. Few, if any, of the imported birds are raised by persons who give their entire time to it.

Begin Small

The bird-breeder usually begins upon a small scale, confining his birds in cages and gradually increasing his equipment in proportion to his success. One pair of birds averages from three to five broods a year, but this number is greatly increased by following the German method of mating three females with every male. In its wild state, the canary pairs the same as other birds, often breaking the muscles of its small throat in attracting the attention of some coquettish female, but under domestication it has become a polygamist fowl, the male accepting the harem bestowed upon him by the breeder, although displaying a distinct preference for the female with which he is first mated.

The canary room, found in so many pleasant homes in Germany, is the ideal breeding equipment. It may be an unfinished room in the attic, or an unused pantry of some sort, but it must have plenty of light and fresh air, not too cold in winter and not too hot in summer. One woman, who clears several hundred dollars a year on her canaries, breeds them in a space about six by eight feet at the end of her hall, enclosed by wire screening. In the center is a branch of a tree, in which there are a couple of nests, and the floor is covered with fresh gravel which is changed every morning. The floor itself is of galvanized iron which the breeder finds much easier to keep

GREEKS PROTEST
PLAN TO SET UP
BASES FOR ALLIES

LONDON, April 11.—The Anglo-French government have notified the Greek ministry that the allies have decided to establish bases on the coast of Crete and the Ionian sea, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens tonight, held up by the Greek censor for forty-eight hours. The Greek premier is reported to have made emphatic protest.

TEDDY "MOST PERNICIOUS INFLUENCE IN COUNTRY" IS ANSWER OF BARNES

NEW YORK, April 11.—The breach between Colonel Roosevelt and William Barnes, Jr., is wider than ever today following the issuance of a statement by Barnes declaring Roosevelt the "most pernicious influence in the country."

"Mr. Roosevelt is an enemy of the American republic and the most pernicious influence in the country upon the public mind—not even excepting Bryan," the statement said.

Barnes made the attack on the colonel after issuing a denial of a Boston rumor that he would support Roosevelt if the republican convention named him. Barnes declared Roosevelt was without respect for the rights of others, that he was not the preparedness leader, but rather one who had jumped aboard the national preparedness movement after it had been started.

Will Ask Extension
SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 11.—Counsel for Theodore Roosevelt will make an application to Justice W. S. Andrews Thursday for an extension of time in the appeal of William Barnes from the adverse verdict returned in the famous libel suit.

Justice Andrews said he had been asked informally when his engagements would permit the reception of such an application and had named Thursday.

DERR'S SALARY IS LEGAL ALTHOUGH
RAISED IN TERM

Point Is Settled by Attorney General of State When Asked by the Mayor

IS CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYEE

Not Selected for Any Stated Term, Says Owen, and Therefore Outside of Law

City Sealer E. H. Derr is beyond reach of the "illegal payment" hoodoo, whose shadow has been perplexing the city hall. It became known today that Mayor Bentley and City Attorney J. E. Higbee are in possession of an opinion rendered by Attorney General Walter C. Owen, which rules that as pay of a civil service employee selected for no stated term, Mr. Derr's salary is legal, despite the fact that it has been raised since he took office.

The point was raised in connection with the situation of the two assessors and two members of the board of public works. Their salary was raised by the council, but the raise was negated by an opinion of City Attorney Higbee, who cited the law that emoluments may not be increased during the term of office. Mayor Bentley and the other city officials concerned thereupon refused to take chances of personal responsibility for illegal payments, and the raise voted by the council has been deducted.

RIVER IS DOWN
TENTH OF FOOT
DROP IS STEADY

Water Slowly Begins to Recede from Highest Mark in Years; Situation Not Improved

The Mississippi began its long drop toward normal water stage last night. The government weather bureau reported a stage of thirteen feet today—a drop of one-tenth of a foot. Predictions are that the stream will drop slowly. It is expected to recede not faster than from two to three-tenths of a foot a day.

The drop was scarcely perceptible at La Crosse today, and summer cottage owners and others whose property was severely damaged by the highest water mark for four years reported little improvement in their condition, although relief was expressed when it was learned that the Mississippi has begun to fall.

With the upriver cities reporting marked drops, and danger about over, downriver cities report what they believe is the crest of the rise.

NEW POINT IS UP
IN LEGAL TANGLE
OVER THE LIBRARY

Board Doubtful Whether Reversal of Higbee Opinion Is Sufficient to Establish Aid's Legality

WOULD PUT QUESTION TO COURT

Higbee Decision Held to Deal Generally with Constitutional Phase; Law Is Not Interpreted

Attempt will be made to inject a new point into the legal situation concerning the La Crosse public library when the case is heard by the state supreme court, following the meeting of the library board of trustees yesterday afternoon. The board believes, according to Mayor A. A. Bentley this morning, that Judge Higbee's decision refusing a writ of mandamus against the city does not clear up the interpretation of the state statute upon which counsel for the library claims the city may legally aid the local institution.

Judge Higbee's decision, it was pointed out deals generally with the constitutionality of public aid to privately controlled institutions. Even should the legality of such support be established in the supreme court, it was believed, the exact situation of the La Crosse public library would remain in some doubt.

An effort will be made to bring this further question before the supreme court, although it is contrary to established rules of procedure for the bench to take note of issues not developed in the lower court. It was thought, however, that the question might be raised by agreement between the city and the library board, since both sides are interested in straightening the tangle.

The board unanimously voted to appeal Judge Higbee's decision. Plans were also laid for borrowing sufficient sums to keep the library in full operation until a decision comes down from the supreme court.

BUCKET BRIGADE
LOSES FIGHT TO SAVE PIPER HOUSE

Gasoline Stove Explodes and Flames Render Two Families Homeless in La Crescent

Practically the entire male population of La Crescent formed a bucket brigade late yesterday afternoon in an endeavor to save the Richard Piper residence, which burned to the ground with a loss of about $2,000. The house was occupied by the families of Walter Dutty and William Sherwood.

Supper was being prepared on a gasoline stove. The stove became overheated and exploded. No one was injured, due to the fact that all the family were in another room. In an instant the kitchen was in flames, and within a short time, it was seen that the building would be destroyed.

Only a few pieces of furniture were carried out of the house. Men and boys who ran to the burning dwelling gave assistance but were driven back. A bucket brigade was then formed, and the men fought until it was found to be useless.

Water was thrown on dwellings in the vicinity of the burning house, which were for a time endangered.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—A rumor is being circulated that Villa is dead. The Mexican embassy here has no confirmation, neither has the war or state departments.

COLUMBUS, N. M., April 11.—False reports of Villa's death from wounds suffered at Guerrero, March 30, are being circulated by Mexicans encountered on the American line of march to deceive the pursuers and aid in Villa's escape, according to Lieutenant Dargue and Gorrell, aviators, on their arrival here today from the front.

Dargue said army men who have been all over the scene of Villa's fight with the Carranza garrison at Guerrero, in which he was reported wounded, believe Villa was shot in both legs but admit this may also be an "inspired deception."

The report of Villa's death as given to the American troops at San Borja stated that he died of his wounds at Santa Ana and was buried by his men.

EL PASO, Tex., April 11.—American passengers from Chihuahua City today denounced the Carranzista forces in southern Chihuahua, charging them with stepping out of Villa's way after he was defeated at Guerrero.

Villa's flight from the American pursuit was through Minaca and La Junta, thence through El Rancho De Santiago and Cierro Prieto to Satevo and Ojo Azules. No opposition was offered by Carranza soldiers at any

HAWKEYE PRIMARY

Cummins Gets Convention Delegation by Good Majority; Teddy Runs Behind

DES MOINES, Ia., April 11.—The boom for Hughes is the real thing in Iowa, as demonstrated at the first presidential primary held yesterday. Only fractional returns have been received, while Senator A. B. Cummins gets the delegation to the republican national convention by a handsome majority. Hughes carries a few precincts and ran well ahead of Roosevelt. Wilson got the democratic endorsement without opposition.

The total republican vote was not over 75,000 and the democratic 60,000. It may be a week before all the returns are in.

For national committee man Wilbur M. Marsh of Waterloo was re-elected over Edward G. Dunn of Mason City. Marsh won by a two-to-one vote.

John T. Adams of Dubuque was re-elected republican national committeeman over John Olson of Forest City by about the same majority.

For the republican vice presidential nomination, 126 precincts give E. J. Burkett of Nebraska, 1,871 and H. G. Webster of Chicago, 1,311. Elliott W. Major of Missouri had no opposition for the democratic vice presidential nomination.

There are some indications that the democratic insurgents who had a presidential delegate ticket in the field will nominate some of their men but the returns are so incomplete this can not be determined for several hours.

LA FOLLETTE'S LEAD OVER 22,000

Official Returns Show How Monroe, Pepin, Trempealeau and Vernon Voted on Delegates at Large

MADISON, Wis., April 11.—Official figures today, with but thirty-six precincts to hear from, reduce Governor Philipp's lead over James Thompson of La Crosse, for delegate at large, at less than a thousand. The official returns follow:

Philipp (Philipp), 69,530; Thompson (La Follette), 68,570; Houser (La Follette), 67,335; Doerfler (La Follette), 65,847; Sanborn (La Follette), 65,400; Cook (Philipp), 63,633; Baensch (Philipp), 58,397; Ellingson (Philipp), 56,179.

Governor Philipp's lead over Thompson is 960, and that this will be further reduced is the expectation.

With thirty-six precincts to hear from, Senator La Follette polled 92,308 votes, as compared with 69,530 cast for Philipp. La Follette's majority over Philipp being 22,778, more than thirty per cent. La Follette's majority over Thompson is more than twenty-three times Philipp's majority over Thompson.

What Our Neighbors Did

The official vote on delegates at large in surrounding counties follows:

Monroe—Doerfler, 758; Houser, 826; Sanborn, 940; Thompson, 947; Baensch, 712; Cook, 775; Ellingson, 598; Philipp, 1,057. La Follette, 1,521.

OTHER CASES NOT YET SETTLED

Lusitania Case Still Open Through German Decree Against Armed Merchantmen

WASHINGTON, April 11.—President Wilson's cabinet convened today with few of the expected facts concerning the recent submarine operations in hand.

The German foreign office report, disclaiming responsibility, was believed to have been handed Ambassador Gerard today, but direct word to that effect had not come from Gerard.

The German note, which the foreign office advised Ambassador Gerard would be given him yesterday, was delayed in delivery apparently, dispatches telling it would be placed in Gerard's hands today.

The cabinet was without official verification, therefore, of the German announcement that no German U-boat torpedoed the Sussex and that no international law was violated by the submarines which torpedoed the other four vessels, concerning which the government has asked Berlin.

Officials confined themselves today largely to discussion of the general issue. One thing was clear from utterances of certain high officials: The Sussex incident of the Sussex has not been responsible for the present critical stage of relations between the United States and Germany.

The Lusitania case and the whole submarine issue is yet to be disposed of. The United States, it was pointed out by one authority, has not considered the Lusitania case closed, since the armed merchantmen decree of March 1 announced a program declared to be in direct conflict with the principles for which this country had contended throughout the Lusitania negotiations and to which Germany virtually had subscribed. No settlement that does not cover the whole ground will be considered satisfactory, it was said. With the Sussex, Manchester Engineer, Eagle Point, Englishman and Berwind cases the greatest significance lies in the indication that the American position is not accepted by Germany. This means, some officials say, that further negotiations are futile.

These officials oppose permitting the new cases to become the subject of long drawn out informal discussions between the state department and the German embassy. They fear Count Von Bernstorff's reappearance at the department yesterday, in connection with the Sussex matter, foreshadows such an attempt by Germany and insist it should not be successful.

Resent American Attitude
BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
BERLIN, April 11.—Much bitterness has been caused here by reports that Americans are questioning the honor of the German government, without waiting for a presentation of all the facts in the Sussex and other cases.

The Berlin newspapers today reprinted several American newspaper editorials, as cabled here from English sources. These editorials charged that Germany has violated the pledges given by Ambassador Bernstorff.

It is the unanimous opinion of all Germans with whom I have talked that the U-boat commanders have received such explicit instructions that there is little possibility that they have violated either international law or the pledges given America. For that reason the Germans feel that the American editorials, written before Germany presented her side of the case, are entirely unfair.

The final draft of the German reply to President Wilson's inquiries, regarding the Sussex and the four freighters, has been approved by Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg and Admiral Von Holtzendorff. It is transmitted to Ambassador Gerard for forwarding to Washington within a few hours.

BERLIN, April 11.—Capture of more French positions northeast of Verdun, in the fighting southwest of Fort Douaumont was announced by the war office this afternoon.

On the east bank of the Meuse French counter-attacks south of Crow's forest were repulsed, the Germans taking 222 prisoners.

On the west bank of the Meuse, the Germans have captured about ten square miles of French positions, in addition to the much larger area taken on the east bank of the river. The French counter attacked in large force from the direction of Chantonnay, but were everywhere driven back. They were also driven off in attempts to reconquer positions near Pepper heights recently taken by the Germans.

South of St. Eloi an English grenade attack broke down. The Germans retain the whole position.

Take 36,000 Prisoners
More than 36,000 prisoners have been captured by the Germans since the Verdun offensive began February 21 it was semi-officially stated today.

Counting upon the French statement that the village of Bethincourt was evacuated "according to a previously arranged plan," the semi-official news agency today made public the copy of a French army order found on the battlefield, saying Bethincourt must be held under all circumstances.

Claim German Losses 200,000
PARIS, April 11.—German losses in the Verdun battle have now reached 200,000 the war office estimated in an official statement today.

The third German army corps alone has lost 22,000 men, or about half its original number. The eighteenth German corps has lost 17,000 men.

In the recent attack on Vaux village, the Sixteenth and Nineteenth German regiments lost 60 per cent of their forces in killed or wounded. The Eleventh division lost 50 per cent in attacking Avocourt.

Attacking Dead Man's hill with H-quad fire, the Germans captured small fragments of French trenches in furious fighting last night, but at every other point in the fighting, were repulsed.

Say French Line Holds
LONDON, April 11.—Under the most tremendous hammer-blows in the history of the world, the French line is holding firm in the great battle raging around Verdun.

Wave after wave of German gray coats are rolling up against the French barricades on the six mile front northwest of Verdun to be driven back in savage hand to hand fighting.

Beginning with heavy infantry attacks delivered last Saturday the battle has hourly grown more violent as if it is about to culminate in a grand assault on both banks of the Meuse.

"If the French hold them this time, Verdun is saved beyond a doubt," said an English authority today.

Furious French counter attacks and shelled artillery fire are checked.

The McGregor Heights association has purchased from Mrs. Martha Buell Munn of New York city, heir of James McGregor, founder of the town, a tract of twenty-five acres on the high bluff known as the Heights overlooking the Mississippi at the edge of town. The association has had a lease on the land for eighteen years and a good many summer cottages are built on the site. Now that the association has bought the land many new lots will be surveyed and offered for sale. The association has already received a good many requests for building sites and it is expected that a number of cottages will be erected this summer. The officers of the association are F. G. Bell, C. W. Walker, R. Quigley, O. Buck, L. Bickel and B. Bliss of McGregor, T. Jayne, Decorah, and Dr. A. Marston, Mason City.

The Mississippi Valley National Park association has adopted an emblem which will be used to mark all the main roads in Clayton county leading to McGregor. It is also expected that it will be adopted by the North Iowa Pike, the Lincoln Highway, the Des Moines, Waterloo and McGregor park and other Iowa highway associations as a secondary marking to their regular emblems. The sign is a circle of yellow ten inches in diameter enclosing a blue field with the letters M. V. N. P. emblazoned in yellow on it.

River Highest Now
The stage of the Mississippi here reached a higher mark Monday than it has in thirteen years. The river will rise at least two feet more it is expected before the flood reaches its crest, which will probably be today. The water has flooded Turner park and entered a number of buildings on the river front, among them the cement building of the McGregor Fish company and the city ice house, but as it is back water with little current it is not anticipated that much damage will be done. Nearly all the islands are under water. A number of summer cottages on Bergman's island opposite town will be damaged to some extent. The saloon which has occupied the highest point on the island since prohibition went into effect in Iowa January 1, will probably remain dry.

No Shoddy Sheep For Him
A Wall street man was speaking of the cautiousness of a certain operator.
"No wonder," he said, "that man is so successful. He is the most careful, the most suspicious fellow I ever encountered. He reminds me of an old farmer I used to know. It was said of this farmer that, whenever he bought a new herd of sheep, he examined each sheep closely to make sure that it had no cotton in it."

The Searchlight
GASOLINE ON THE FARM
Despite the high cost of gasoline, experiments recently concluded in a western agricultural college indicate that it is the most profitable investment the farmer can make. According to actual tests, a single gallon of this power producing liquid can be made to bale four tons of hay, milk 200 cows, mix 36 cubic yards of concrete, move a ton of produce over four miles, plow three and a half acres of land or generate sufficient electricity to light the farm house for 30 continuous hours. Even at 30 cents a gallon it is considerably cheaper power than either horse or mule, even though these animals be raised on the farm and fed entirely on farm produce.
Now, you must move your mouth when the pictures are being taken, and you are supposed to be speaking.
"But I don't know anything to say."
"Well, then, chew gum."

THE PUBLIC FEELS LOSS OF FATHER MURPHY
We deem it a privilege to join in the regret over the prospective departure of Rev. Father Ambrose Murphy and to share in the hope that some arrangement may be reached by which he will remain in the community in the moral and spiritual development of which he has had so honorable a part. We deem the loss of this frank and fearless Christian a misfortune, not only to his privileged parish, but to the entire city. La Crosse needs his courageous ministry, we believe, even more than St. Gabriel's church, Prairie du Chien, needs his French and German scholarship. And indeed! we believe it far easier to secure the academic attainments requisite for St. Gabriel's parish than to fit a new pastor into the La Crosse niche that has been moulded about the big spiritual figure of this courageous little priest. We shall defer our hearty congratulations to the latter parish until hope that a way may be found to keep Father Murphy here has been exhausted.

THE TEST OF STRENGTH
The "repudiation" of Governor Philipp will hardly feature stalwart editorials of the future. Taken on the basis of the delegation vote, three Philipp delegates at large were repudiated while Philipp himself was saved by his official prestige only by a scant margin. A majority of the congressional districts, too, repudiated the governor. Therefore, if any inference is to be drawn from the delegation vote, it is favorable to the senior senator.

But there is a more direct test between the senator and the governor. There was one square on the republican ticket following the name of the governor and one square following the name of the senator. Approximately 70,000 voters placed the cross of approval in the Philipp square, while approximately 100,000 voters placed the cross of approval in the La Follette square.

In this contest the men were on an even footing; the vote was direct, not for a delegated representative; each had the prestige of his office back of him. The vote shows La Follette's strength and his lead over conservative candidates undiminished.

GOOD HENRY FORD IS NOT A FACTOR
The latest "preparedness" bugaboo is an alarm sounded by its votaries that Henry Ford, having blossomed out as Michigan's "favorite son", may enter the remaining presidential primaries and turn the republican national convention into a Hague conference.

Of course what really happened in Michigan was that its people seized upon the reluctant candidacy of their popular fellow citizen to rebuke the aspirations of an unfit gentleman of extremely reactionary tendencies whose candidacy did no honor to Michigan. Like his car, Mr. Ford is a great factor in the industrial convenience and development of his country, but in a national convention his statesmanship would rank with the Ford run-about in a national auto show.

Nor is the Ford propaganda a winning political slogan. Peace, always desirable, is represented by a negative instinct, and its advocacy is not calculated to stir men to action. "Something heroic" has a grip upon the class of men who make political campaigns. For instance, a vast majority of people want peace, but to most of them the prediction of Mr. Ford's candidacy carries nothing of the punch which accompanies the announcement that "T. R.'s" hat is in the ring. Red blood may not like to be spilled, but it loves to leap.

GOING ONE STEP FURTHER
The Chronicle observes that "in La Crosse County" Mr. James Thompson received the largest vote for delegate "because he is the best known to La Crosse voters", and by further analysis of the county vote elaborates the idea to the conclusion that Philipp and Houser ran ahead and Doerfler behind because the wider acquaintance of the former two outweighed factional considerations.

We call attention to the fact that in the state Mr. Thompson, the least known of the eight candidates, ran ahead of all other candidates excepting the governor himself, and that Mr. Doerfler, next to Mr. Thompson the least known politically, was second to Mr. Thompson. They ran as comparatively unknown La Follette delegates. Nothing but the prestige of being governor saved Philipp from defeat at the hands of both these men. We agree with the Chronicle that acquaintance is a factor in vote-getting, but the returns prove decidedly that it does not outweigh political convictions.

The Milwaukee Sentinel observes that Colonel Roosevelt will have to reckon with "the 3,484,956 voters who cast their ballots for Mr. Taft in 1912". It may be added that a reactionary candidate will have to reckon with the 4,117,813 voters who cast their ballots for Colonel Roosevelt in 1912. Therepublican national convention will lose its opportunity the moment it mounts a stand-pat candidate upon a stand-pat platform.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Such a Shock
"Your fashionable friend seems to be threatened with palpitation of the heart."
"Yes, she just received a dreadful shock."
"And what happened to fortune's favorite?"
"She was sitting in an employment office waiting for a chance to look at a cook, when a naughty dame swept up and offered her a job."

Air for the Sleepers
One evening the minister of a certain church was eloquently addressing his congregation on the beauty of leading an upright life when he suddenly paused, glanced around the building and beckoned to the sexton.
"Jones," said he, as the sexton approached the pulpit, "open a couple of windows on each side of the church, please."
"Beg pardon, sir!" returned the sexton, with a look of surprise. "Did I understand you to say 'Open the windows'?"
"Yes," was the cold, hard rejoinder of the minister. "It is not healthy to sleep with the windows shut!"

Not in a Hurry
A somewhat impecunious young fellow rashly engaged himself to a charming young thing, who shortly after the excitement had subsided began to evince doubts. Said she: "How long, dearie, do you think we shall have to be engaged?"
"Well, sweetheart," said the young man cheerily, "I have enough money to last six months. I think."

Favored Boisterous Rapidity
"I guess," said Bronco Bob, "that we'd better get up a fund and have a reformer come along and talk to 'Crimson Gulch.'"
"What for?"
"Some of the boys are getting the idea that this is a slow town. We need somebody to whoop it up and show we can be as wicked as any metropolis on the map."

Not Much
"Pa, a man's wife is his better half, isn't she?"
"We are told so, my son."
"Then if a man marries twice there isn't anything left of him is there?"—Boston Transcript.

A Fisherman's Son
A New Englander who is a great angler and whose fish stories are listened to most attentively by his 8-year-old son, recently became a father for the fifth time, another boy being brought by the stork.
The 8-year-old was told of the arrival of this new brother and he was very curious to see him. The father took the first opportunity to gratify the lad's curiosity. The kiddie gazed at the bit of red humanity for quite a while and then with great gravity he looked into his father's face and said:
"Dad, he'd make first-rate bait, wouldn't he?"—Harper's Magazine.

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE
(By Nikkah)

QUITO
Quito is the world's nearest approach to an equatorial city. The capital of Ecuador is situated almost exactly on the equator—but her surroundings and her climate are far from equatorial.
As soon as the little train leaves Guayaquil, it begins to labor and complain over what it seems to regard as a grade too steep for the most long-suffering locomotive. That ride from Guayaquil begins in the dense rich verdure of the tropics, climbs up and up through half a dozen zones of vegetation, and ends in Quito, in a land of northern barrenness and cold. The great plaza of Quito, where the palace of the archbishop looks across at the administrative buildings of the republic is more than 9,000 feet above the level of the sea.
The scenery round Quito is of unsurpassed magnificence. Such a collection of peaks as you pass on the journey and see close at hand, or looming misty in the distance, about the little basin where the city lies, can be found nowhere else, not even in the Himalayas. They dwarf the Rockies to foothills, the Alleghenies to mere wrinkles in the plain. Cayambe, Cotopaxi, Chimborazo, living, smoking Sangay—these and many others lift their monster heads and shoulders into the realm of eternal snow. They are the watch-towers of a continent, the lords of the Andes. Olympus, dwelling of the gods, would scarcely reach their knees.
The sun of Quito is thin and clear, the air is light and heady and exhilarating. Yet the old city has never been galvanized into any feverish activity. She is solid and substantial as her own massive adobe houses, and just about as easily moved to energetic enterprise. The old Spanish traditions still fill the air. There is a strong flavor of religion in daily life in Quito, due perhaps to the half-dozen monasteries and as many nunneries that you find there, and that too may make for conservatism. It is only lately that Quito is beginning to bestir herself. When she is fully awakened there will be one more member in the large sisterhood of bustling industrial centers and a large gap in the thinning ranks of the places that are truly picturesque.

Copyright 1916—The Bobbs-Merrill Company
"Parker has always been as thick as thieves with those crooks," said Tredecker. "But the other day, over at the Motor Club, he quarreled with them over you. They were all in their cups, apparently, and, while amicable enough, with their heads very close together, Parker suddenly blazed out on them and accused them of buncoing you in some manner. They denied it, then half-way admitted it, accusing him of growing very holy all of a sudden. He declared that you were the smartest man in the country and a real benefactor to him; that you had put him in the way of winning the race and that he wouldn't acknowledge any man as a friend that would do a dirty trick to you. The fight got pretty violent before it broke up and Parker declared emphatically that he was through with them."
"After he had left, Worm became very sore and made threats against both of you, belittling your car and declaring that you were incompetent. He said he'd take any bets on it that any one would offer, and that he'd show Parker and you what he thought of it. Zut! Manners seemed depressed and tried to quiet him. Manners admitted to some of the men that the car was a wonder and that you were the greatest designer that the country had ever produced. And Manners knows what he is talking about. He was a shark in the motor business before the drink got him."
"All this increased Henry's wonder. "But it would be odd if those men didn't know what the car really is," he said. "At that," he added, "it will beat yours. But further than that I haven't any hope for it."
"Well," said Tredecker, "I haven't a doubt but that some funny work is on the carpet with that crowd. But don't let them draw you into it, whatever it is. And if you beat my car, I promise you that you can have Walker's job. I'm hanged if I don't almost wish you luck, but I'd never hear the last of it from Alice if you won, so I can't quite do it. She's entirely too full of you and your perfections as it is."
"By the way, don't confine yourself to taking tea up there in the afternoon, but come around and see us when I'm at home. I'll promise not to be too much in evidence. Alice would like to have you come up to dinner tomorrow evening."
"As a friend or enemy?" smiled Henry.
"Both," said Tredecker. "We want to get well acquainted with the future chief engineer of the Crescent Company, don't we?"
"Under those circumstances, I'll be glad to come," replied the engineer.
Thus Henry's acquaintance with Alice won the approval of her father and was placed on a regular footing by this event. Busy night and day, he had little time to waste in calls, it is true, but the knowledge that Tredecker did not object to the intimacy was welcome.
By the time the March winds had given place to the April rains, the mysterious car, the "Parker Special", was in readiness for the test runs. And, wonder of wonders! it was the timid, speed-frightened Henry who rolled her out on the paved streets to the edges of the city and tightened his grip of the wheel at the beginning of the rural districts. It was the pusillanimous theorist who, a few months ago, was terror-stricken at the very idea of rapid motion, that set the throttle wide open and heard the sputtering thunder of the exhaust as the black painted machine struck its gait and rumbled away on its trial trip. It was the formerly pale inventor, now bronzed and hardened, who brought it back in the evening, splattered with mud and dust, streaked with oil and soot, grimy and hard-driven, and climbed out of the bucket seat with a half smile of satisfaction. The old engine of the Grafton-Brown, with newly bored cylinders, had vindicated its ancient reputation and was running like a clock but with the power of seventy horses. Hardly a sign of weakness had developed and such as there was would require little attention.
And now Henry set himself to work to train a pit team. He selected his men from those who worked at the shops and set up a model pit for them to practice in. Every task that would fall to their lot was rehearsed until they were perfect in it and a system of signals was arranged by which every position and every mishap to cars were to be made known to the driver. In this he had the able assistance of Huddings who had actually been engaged by Parker. The driver had demurred to sharing a seat with a strange mechanic but when Henry had accompanied him in several trials at the Speedway, he ceased to object and even expressed himself as being more than satisfied with his assistance. He was a grim, silent young man, this Huddings, whose trap-like mouth and narrow gray eyes gave one the impression that it would take an event of more than usual magnitude to divert him from the pursuit of any object he had in hand. He suited Henry and Henry suited him, though they were far apart as the poles in temperament and disposition.
When the papers began to feature the entries in the great race and comment on them with more or less expert insight, it became apparent that Parker's car had impressed at least some of the scribes with astonishing force. In the Planet, especially Manners, the automobile editor, was darkly certain that a surprise was to be sprung. Almost every day he called attention to circumstances that nobody else had noticed, but which he interpreted to mean that something marvelous was to develop when the race was run. There was even velle mention of Henry's new engine, which became something entirely new and unheard of in principle, and was even hinted to be designed to run on a powerful explo-

Joyous news! Alice Joyce has emerged from the chrysalis of oblivion in which she has concealed her bright picture play self from the public for the last year or so, and is looking around with the idea of again appearing on the screen. Needless to say, a number of companies are eagerly flagging her. Which one she joins is a matter of conjecture, but we have a pretty fair idea. Which do you reckon? You remember Miss Joyce has been Kalem's screen star, present day. The cost of the company, Thomas Moore. Now she has added to her list of titles that of mother of a small daughter, Joyce Moore, who, according to the best information, was the real cause of the mother's absence from the motion picture play theaters.

PEGGY SNOW CHARMS IN LATEST METRO

Peggy Ainslee, as seen in the person of Marguerite Snow, who is featured in "A Corner in Cotton," is an altogether appealing and lovely young woman. This is as it should be, for the story concerns itself entirely with the affairs of Peggy, as far as its hold upon the spectator goes. The picture tells how Peggy opposes her father in a business transaction to save a proud Southerner from ruin and to better the conditions of the people who work in this mill.

Her fiancé, spurred on by a jealous girl, objects to Peggy's visits to the slums. Peggy breaks her engagement, as she had promised to marry Algie to please her father. The following day she leaves for the south to visit a certain cotton mill where she has heard the conditions threaten to become alarming. Learning the cause of Colonel Carter's impending ruin, with its serious consequences to the mill hands, Peggy hurriedly returns to New York, and with the shares in cotton her father gave her she breaks his corner in the market.

"THE MORAL FABRIC" NEW THOUGHT FILM

"The Moral Fabric," Triangle Kay-Bee feature recently directed by Charles Miller, is slated for the Majestic for next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This story, from the pen of C. Gardner Sullivan, will present as its star Frank Mills, the noted legitimate actor who already has been seen in the Triangle program with Bessie Barriscale in "The Golden Claw" and with Mary Boland and Willard Mack in "The Edge of the Abyss." It is a powerful treatment of so-called "advanced thought" which puts the claims of love before those of morality. Appearing with Mills are Howard Hickman and Edith Reeves, the latter a newcomer to the Triangle program.

Stomach Trouble causes a multitude of ailments, and often results in Gall Stones, Yellow Jaundice, Acute and Chronic Indigestion, Appendicitis, Constipation, Auto-intoxication, Gas Pressure, Fear of Heart Disease, Cancer and Ulcers of the Stomach and Intestines, etc., etc. One dose of May's Wonderful Remedy has proven successful in thousands of cases of Stomach Trouble. ### GROCERY PATRONS TOLD THEY MUST DO BUYING EARLY

Merchants Under the New Shorter Hour Arrangement Advise Their Customers

Patrons of north side grocers have been advised of the new order of things to go into effect next Monday, namely the cutting down of the hours during which the stores will be open. Handbills, enclosed in each order, tell customers that after Saturday night, they must do their shopping between these hours:

Saturday, 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.
 Other weeks days, except holidays, 7 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.
 Holidays, other than those falling on Saturdays or Mondays, not open.
 Mondays, 7 a. m. to 12 noon.
 Sundays, not open.

Only two north side grocers, according to Melvin Lokken of the Mulder store, where the plan originated, have failed to subscribe to the agreement. Their names, says Lokken, are expected before Saturday night. The agreement was reached by a majority of north side grocers at a recent mass meeting.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB CONSIDERING PURCHASE OF HOME

Organization Has Increased in Membership to Extent that Headquarters Building Is Advisable

The membership of the Twentieth Century club having increased to such an extent that it is no longer practicable to hold its meetings in private homes, the organization is at present contemplating the purchase of a home to serve as headquarters for the club. The matter was scheduled to come up for action at today's meeting, but has been put over until the next meeting, to be held April 25th. Three or four available residence properties are under consideration by the club officers.

For some time past it has been found that the attendance at the club meetings has taxed to the utmost the capacity of the homes of many of the members, meetings having been held at various times at the state normal school, the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., and it is partially to meet this condition that the purchase of a club home is contemplated. The organization at present has upwards of eighty members enrolled on its roster.

The Twentieth Century club is holding its regular bi-weekly meeting today at the kindergarten rooms of the state normal school, and is being entertained by Mesdames C. W. Noble and A. E. Soderberg. Officers for the coming year are to be chosen, as well as delegates to the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs in New York and the district convention to be held in Sparta, both scheduled for the month of May.

Another matter to come before the club today is the spring distribution of flower seeds to the school children. The matter is in the hands of the civic committee who will today make arrangements for this year's campaign. The committee includes the Mesdames George R. Bradish, E. G. Perkins, William Doerflinger and G. H. Bretnall.

ATTEND SALEM MEETING

Representatives of the Missionary societies of the two local Presbyterian churches will attend the meeting of the Women's Missionary societies of the La Crosse Presbytery which will convene at West Salem tomorrow. Mesdames Duncan, Freeman, Hadgraft and Larson will represent the North Presbyterian church, and it is expected that this delegation will be augmented by a number of other members, while in the neighborhood of from fifteen to twenty members of the society of the First Presbyterian church will represent that organization.

FORMER RESIDENT WEDDED IN WEST

Word has been received in the city of the marriage at Miles City, Mont., March 20, of Miss Alice M. Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Alma Nelson of Sand Springs, Mont., to Oliver Larson. Mrs. and Miss Nelson were formerly residents of La Crosse, having resided at 2021 Kane street for many years. After a trip through the west, Mr. and Mrs. Larson will reside on their ranch at Sand Springs.

Announcements

The Ladies' Society of the First Presbyterian church will be entertained at the church parlors Thursday afternoon by the Mesdames J. F. Nicholson and D. C. Pones.

The Market-day sale of home cooked food, announced for Saturday, April 15th, by the Catholic Women's League, will be opened at the City Grocery Saturday morning and will continue throughout the entire day and evening. The articles to be placed on sale include home baking, salads and salad dressings, jellies and preserves—in fact everything "good to eat."

D. A. R. MEETING

The La Crosse chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held their regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. M. Wing, Tenth and Main streets, the hostesses being Mrs. A. U. Jorris and Mrs. Wing.

At a short business session which preceded the day's lesson, the report of the result of the Belgian Flag day, held here last Saturday, was heard and it was found that the sum of $115 which was realized by the taggers Saturday morning had been swelled to approximately $150 by the sale of the flags by members of the chapter. This fund will be sent to the national headquarters of the society and, together with various sums raised throughout the United States, will go to relieve the sufferings of Belgian women and children made destitute by the war.

Two delegates, Mrs. M. E. Hebbard and Mrs. George W. Bunge, will be sent by the local chapter to the national convention of the Daughters, which convenes in Washington, D. C., Monday, April the 17th.

Prof. Henry Noble Sherwood, of the state normal school, was present at the meeting yesterday and gave a most interesting talk on George Rogers Clark. Professor Sherwood sought to impress upon his hearers the importance of the place occupied by Clark in American history, and in so doing pointed out the two-fold character of the revolutionary war. The first, and the one we usually think of in connection with the revolution, is that it won for us independence. There is, however, he said, another and just as important side of this struggle. This was the western movement—the settlement and colonization of the region lying west of the mountains and extending to the Mississippi river—and it is with this angle of the war that we find Clark connected. It was Clark and his army, small though it was, who subdued the Indians and kept the British military activities radiating from Detroit, in such a feeble state as to make it possible for the pioneers to make their way to Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois. This was shown at the meeting of diplomats in Paris, which drafted the peace treaty, as it was the actual settlement, the presence of American people, that made them deed to us the Northwest territory.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Lennon, 1004 Division street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Annette Hudson, to Mr. Joe B. Parsons of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Reducing The High Cost Of Living

—System and Efficiency
 (Written for THE TRIBUNE by Nellie Maxwell, Department of Farmers' Institutes of the University of Wisconsin.)

"Inefficiency in woman is as great a danger to the state as quackery in medicine."

The lack of system in the average home is a great cause of wastefulness in money as well as in time. The woman who waits until a half hour before the meal to wonder what to have for dinner is not in position to give her family a fair deal either from a money standpoint or as regards nutritive food.

In the first place, every housewife should keep accounts. There is no better way than to begin with the prospective housewife as soon as she can add, subtract, multiply and divide, to let her keep her own expense account. She will learn to appreciate what her parents are doing for her and when she comes to be in a home of her own she will be qualified to manage it.

Is it quite just to our boys who are trained to be home-makers and supporters to take for partners in the firm, girls who are supposed to do their share, but are untrained and inefficient? It is fully as necessary that the girl should be trained for housekeeping as that boys be trained to earn the means for that housekeeping.

Our district schools are beginning to wake up to the fact that much can be done in a little one-room school house without robbing the pupils of the benefits of the regular work. With a teacher who is willing to help and parents who are willing to support the efforts both girls and boys may have a fair start in methods of household economics. Few mothers are good teachers, not all know how to impart knowledge (even when they are good housekeepers themselves) hence the need of teaching these vital things in school.

In many country schools where the heater is not available to cook on, a small oil stove is used, and the girls learn to make various soups, cook vegetables, make cocoa with very little expenditure—as they bring the milk, eggs and vegetables from home. This work may be done during the noon hour and boys and girls are both taught serving. They enter into it as a game and the lessons are learned with little effort. The art of serving, mending and darning is carried out in the same way.

The boys are taught many things valuable to the householder. A simple course in manual training needs but few tools, and does it make a boy less manly to be able to cook an egg properly, make a good cup of coffee, or sew on a button?

The housekeeper with system plans her meals often a week or two ahead. In this way she is able to provide variety without waste. To accomplish results in the shortest possible time, every housewife should have good tools to work with. Mrs. Frederick, in her study of the home, uses the example of the cherry pitter and the wheeled tray, the one costing one dollar and the other ten. Most women ask, "How much does it

Gentlemen:

There has been much written about the effects of the European war on dye stuff and the probability of a shortage of fabrics. The situation deserves some comment from us, and we are very glad to advise you of our position.

We are prepared to manufacture Society Brand Clothes under the same quality standard of previous seasons—and further, we will guarantee fabrics used in our clothing, as to fastness of color, and we make our assertion positive, so as to relieve you of any worry or hesitancy in backing up our goods when selling a customer.

We have been in close touch with the woolen market for many months, which has given us many advantages, and we know that we have made ample preparations to meet the requirements of our trade. We will furnish Society Brand Clothes at the right price and under the same quality guarantee that we have previously.

We are prepared to take care of you as in the past, and our guarantee covers everything necessary for the complete satisfaction of your customers, as heretofore.

Yours very truly,

WE PUBLISH THE ABOVE LETTER, which comes to us unsolicited on our part, for the benefit of our customers and others who have through recent articles in the various papers been advised that there are no fast colors to be had. We receive letters like this every day from our various houses and can with every assurance guarantee the color and wear of every article we carry in our stock.

We want to make this statement broad so that there will be no hesitancy on the part of our customers to return to us any shirt, hosiery, suit, or any article of apparel bought of us for this season and for fall, that fails to give satisfaction.

GERMAN PROGRAM AT H. S. WEDNESDAY

On next Wednesday evening, April 12, there will be a German program given in the high school auditorium. There will be singing of German folk songs, and a puppet play, "The Robber Jaromir." This is a "potato-tragedy," and furnishes a good deal of amusement. The big number of the evening is, however, a comedy, Benedix's "Eigensinn."

Benedix has written forty-six shorter comedies. Of these "Eigensinn" is fairly typical. The chief merit is that it is thoroughly German. The conditions are, however, those of the author's time, which is about the middle of last century. The characters are familiar types in the upper middle class, and they reveal their eccentricities, their homely virtues, in such a way that one has merely to know something of human nature, in whatever land, in order to understand them.

A very simple theme is made to furnish a succession of humorous situations; indeed, the same situation is here repeated with three different couples. The dialogue is easy and natural, in fact, it is as simple as the plot.

The characters are as follows:
 Ausdorf, a rich private gentleman
 —Mr. Alf Gunderson.

Katherina, his wife—Miss Ruth Kerz.

Emma, their daughter—Miss Viola Poehling.

Alfred, Emma's husband—Mr. Ray Hadgraft.

Heinrich and Lisbeth, in Alfred's services—Mr. Charles Weis and Miss Marie Volz.

This program is the result of work of this nature started by the German club of the high school. The students are working very energetically in order to present something finished. They will appreciate a large attendance. The entire program is in German. The public is invited. Admission free.

A government bond draws much less interest than a pawn ticket, but it is more profitable to most men.

FEAR EXPRESSED FOR TOWNSEND

LONDON, April 11.—Increasing fears were felt here today for the safety of General Townsend's force of 10,000 troops, besieged by the Turks at Kut-El-Amara, in Mesopotamia.

Townsend has now been cooped in by the Turks for exactly four months and it is believed his dwindling supplies are rapidly reaching the point of exhaustion. Official dispatches report the failure of the relief expedition to break through the Turkish ring and indicated that floods are seriously hampering the advance of the relief forces.

A good mirror tells the truth, no matter upon whom it may reflect.

If Holland should go into the war with Germany, 320,000 trained Dutch soldiers would be ready to go into the field. There are also available 850,000 men of fighting age, but not organized. If Holland declares war on Germany, one of the first moves would probably be an attack on the great Krupp works at Essen, only forty miles from the Dutch border.

clean than the original wooden boards.

Mother Peevish

After the first pale green or blue egg appears, it is necessary to watch carefully the mother bird, for sometimes it seems to cause her a great deal of annoyance and she will peck at it or roll it out of her nest. This catastrophe may be anticipated by removing the eggs from the nest with a spoon as soon as they are laid. When the third egg has been removed for a short time it is generally safe to return them all to the bird, who then lays her fourth egg and sits dutifully upon them for thirteen days, when they begin to hatch. Occasionally, birds will show a decidedly cannibalistic appetite and eat their own eggs, which is the sign that their daily food is not rich enough. During the breeding season, especially, birds should be fed a paste of boiled egg and cracker in addition to their regular food.

Sometimes the male canary becomes sulky and cannot be persuaded to take any interest in the eggs on which he is supposed to sit for a time each day while his mate takes a rest and partakes of food. In such event, he should be removed immediately from the cage before he has a chance to become actively disagreeable and peck at his wife.

Twenty-seven Kinds

The selection of the birds themselves is a task requiring a certain amount of skill, which is usually not possessed by the amateur, and the wisest course is to choose a reliable dealer and explain to him that the birds are to be used as the nucleus of a breeding business. There are no less than twenty-seven varieties of canaries. The male Hartz Mountain canary costs from $2.50 to $5, while the females may be bought for one dollar.

One of the most interesting features of the canary-breeding business is teaching them to sing, for by the quality of its voice, of course, is judged the value of the bird. That is why there is such a demand for the German birds. During the three centuries of its domestication the peasants of that country have worked with infinite patience to increase the capacity of its singing notes so that it now sings more sweetly than does the wild canary. Left to himself, the male canary is just as likely to absorb the querulous notes of the English sparrow as he is to imitate the cultivated melody of his father, but the Germans have eliminated this possibility by placing wild song birds such as the nightingale and linnet in close proximity to the breeding cages, and carefully keeping away unmusical birds. There is also in use in Germany a device known as the bird organ, by means of which birds may be taught to reproduce certain harmonious sounds. These instruments, which are one of the best artificial means of training canaries, cost anywhere from $8 to $40, according to the variety desired.

Can Carry Times

In this country a few experimenters have been successful in training their canaries to carry simple tunes, and in some instances even to articulate one or more intelligible words. Shortly after the Battle of Manila bay a Philadelphia woman succeeded in making her canary say, "Dewey! Dewey!" so unmistakably that everybody marveled at it. The admiral himself was much impressed and wrote her a letter expressing his appreciation of the compliment thus paid him. Besides this little yellow phenomenon, she had two other canaries, one of which could sing the first line of Yankee Doodle and the other a small part of Onward Christian Soldiers. Her method was extremely simple, merely requiring an elastic store of patience for everybody concerned—including the canary. She played the melody several hours a day on the parlor organ.

-shear facts

Shear facts are important facts in your appearance—hand tailored, made-to-measure clothes are cut from the cloth one at a time—by a shears in the hands of a clever cutter—from the "plans and specifications" of your own body.

Quite naturally, clothes so made have very distinct advantages—personality, is a very apparent characteristic of them—they truly and accurately fit you.

When you let us tailor a suit to your measure you get the advantage of shear cutting, hand tailoring, attractive designing, fine fabrics and real fit.

MEXICANS EXECUTED FOR CONSPIRACY TO FOMENT JUAREZ GARRISON REVOLT

JUAREZ, Mexico, April 11.—Three Mexicans were executed here today by a Carranzista firing squad for conspiracy against the de facto government.

The firing squad of six soldiers themselves selected the order in which the trio went to their death. The bodies were left on the ground before the adobe wall in the cemetery where the executions took place, to be viewed by the public. There were

ASSEMBLING OF DE FACTOS CAUSE FEAR ON BORDER

COLUMBUS, N. M., April 11.—(Censored)—A request for militia from Silver City, which was not honored, resulted from baseless rumors which caused great uneasiness last night. The presence of Carranzista troops near the border, ostensibly to flank Villa, gave rise to alarming stories of imminent attacks on the base camp here. Major W. R. Sample, commandant asked Mayor Hoover to notify residents to remain in the house in case of attack. Deputy Sheriff Hulsey telephoned for the militia but state officials expressed complete confidence in the regular army forces here.

"We are watching the Carranzista movements with anxiety," said an army officer of undeniable standing today.

"There are large numbers of them near the border, as many as 9,000 in one place. We cannot overlook the fact that their positions in every case are strategic points commanding our lines of communication. In event of a break they are in position to cut our line at once and leave expedition in Mexico cut off from supplies."

In addition, to doubled outposts and provost guards here last night heavy cavalry patrols went north where many Mexicans are employed in zinc mines.

SAVE WASTE OF BOYS URGES DR. BOVARD IN TALK

Every year 750,000 boys enter manhood in the United States of America," said Dr. W. S. Bovard, at the meeting for men last night at the First Methodist church. "In this most interesting procession 2,000 boys pass by us out of boyhood into manhood every day."

"These boys find that the men are making countless billions of cigarettes to be smoked and 250,000 saloons are being operated, one for every three boys entering manhood annually. These boys find thousands of men infected with diseases worse than small pox who are willing to teach all they know of sin. But we are glad that in our day there are also thousands of splendid men who are big brothers to the young fellows coming on. They take the boy by the hand and help him over the hard place and if he falls they give him a chance. The Y. M. C. A., the Brotherhoods of the churches, the juvenile courts are rendering great service in these days and all offer splendid chances for strong men to be helpful to boys who might otherwise come to great harm."

"On the other side is the awful wreckage of men who have gone wrong. In New York City 12,000 unknown dead go through the morgues every year. What a awful waste! Seven hundred million dollars was saved last year in the business world by saving waste, and by-products such as mint sweepings, shredded rabbit skins, etc., etc. Suppose we tried with equal zeal to save the wrecks of humanity! And it can be done, as Jerry Macaulay, Sam Hadley and Bill Sunday testify, Guide and protect the boys but also get after the men who slipped away in boyhood. These are indications of the great work the Brotherhoods of the church are doing and can do in our day."

The First German Methodist choir furnished two beautiful choruses and at the close of the address an informal reception was held and light refreshments served.

PETTIBONE PARK MATERIALS COST JUST $1 IN YEAR

"Materials" required for the maintenance of Pettibone park for the last year came to a total expense of just one dollar, according to the report of Park Superintendent John H. Forrer, which will be considered by the Pettibone Park commission at its annual meeting tomorrow.

The material for which the dollar was spent was soap-powder, used in scrubbing the pavilion.

The income of the endowment for Pettibone park was $2,092.34, according to Mr. Forrer's report, of which a balance of $11.33 is left on hand.

Mr. Forrer said today that aside from the expense of cleaning up, the high water had done small damage to Pettibone park. About twenty loads of cinders will be required, he estimates, to repair the drive.

No new work is contemplated in the park this year.

GREGORY DIRECTED TO GIVE REPORT OF OIL INVESTIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The senate today unanimously directed Attorney General Gregory to send a full report of his investigations of the Standard Oil company and other oil interests which are charged with boosting prices and fixing discriminatory rates.

The adoption of the resolution introduced by Kenyon of Iowa, followed reading of a complaint from the Western Oil Jobbers' association, which charged the dissolution suit was "an absurd failure" and demanded congress "make the Sherman law effective or abandon it altogether."

Under present conditions, the jobbers declared, the former Standard Oil stockholders are enabled to combine so as to keep all the advantages of their monopoly and at the same time are not subject to such scrutiny and regulations as they were before the decree.

CHURCH UNITY IS IDEAL SUGGESTED BY THE PASTORS

Christian Union Like a Big Family Working Toward Same End Is Topic of Sermons

The ideal of the church as a united body, working steadfastly toward the same aim without division by creed and theological interpretation, was put forward by the pastors of the associated churches in their sermons Sunday. "The Holy Catholic Church" was the general topic.

Professor H. N. Sherwood, speaking at the Tabernacle Baptist church, referred to some extinct forms of discussion which used to animate denominational differences. He showed that the church is now transferring its emphasis to the tangible fruits of the Christian life. "Honesty," he said, "is a more important attribute than any specific Trinitarian concept."

"So, likewise, the activities of the church have become aggressive. The traditions of our fathers ought not to engage attention when the enemy is carrying off our valuables. The test of discipleship is in the production of living ideals rather than empty forms. Like its great Master, the church must spend most of its time helping the weak, the lame, and the diseased. By their fruits shall ye know them."

First Methodist
At the First Methodist Rev. E. C. Dixon, speaking on the general theme, said:

"The Christian faith in 'The Holy Catholic Church, the communion of saints,' is the indestructible faith in a great ideal.

It is not here yet but we believe that there is being wrought out an association of men to be united over all the earth in complete devotion to the will of God. And those so devoted to God are to be united in the bonds of fellowship which mark the true family life.

The speaker especially emphasized, however, the words of Paul from Ephesians 3:21, "To Him be glory in the church."

The church is an agency for saving men, to be sure, but Paul's great prayer was that it might be the means of making God appear great to men. Many people have a very poor conception of God. The church is here in the world to cause men to understand that God is great, magnificent and sublime. The practical question is: Does the world see in us who are now Christians reasons why they also should worship God and be followers of Jesus Christ?

"The church may not be essential to personal character in all cases, but it is essential to the organizing the strength of individuals for the purposes of the Kingdom."

German Baptist
Rev. William E. Schmitt, at the German Baptist church, gave an interesting explanation of the term The Holy Catholic Church.

He said, among other things: "The word church as it is usually defined, means an external organization uniting believers. To say that all members of this visible church are Christians would be folly, although the greatest care is taken as a rule in the reception of members. Notwithstanding also the rigid discipline exercised in the church, we still find tares among the wheat, wolves among the sheep."

"However, there is a goodly number of devout Christians who cannot on account of their circumstances unite with this visible church, who, nevertheless, will be saved. This being the case we would say, founding our words upon the teachings of God's Word, that the Holy Catholic church is not a visible organization, but rather an invisible universal church uniting all who are saved."

Congregational
Rev. C. C. Rowlinson, at the First Congregational church, said, in part:

"The church is not the only agent of the Kingdom. The family, the school, the state all are indirectly its agents. But the church is the only institution whose primary business and sole reason for existence is the furtherance of the interests of the Kingdom."

"Because the church is the direct agent of the Kingdom, every true man should be an enthusiastic member of the church, as much as he is a member of the family, of the school, of the state. The church does not require a man to live an abnormal life, as too many seem to think. The fact is that a man is not quite normal who is not a devout member of the church. The church really requires nothing of a man that is not required of him simply because he is a man. At least any church with which I am connected requires nothing more of him."

Scandinavian Baptist
At the Scandinavian Baptist church, Rev. T. Knudson spoke of the plan of Christ to make the church on earth His representative, committing to it the work which He had started.

"He urged that the church take up seriously the task of caring for the property of Christ and of propagating the teachings of His Gospel. 'The church,' he said, 'may have tribulations here on earth, but some day the great multitude who have washed their robes in the blood of the Lamb will be before the throne, serving Him day and night in His temple, singing the new song to His praise.'"

German Methodist
Rev. B. C. Brandenburg, at the Second German Methodist church, speaking on the associated topic, emphasized the distinction between the company of Christ's people and the building which we call "the church." "The church is not a build-

In the making of this picture Miss Snow nearly lost her life. In a scene taken in the south, Miss Snow was driving pell mell to catch a train. The scenes about the southern cotton mills are splendid, and the happy little piccanninnies will surely appeal. It's a dandy picture throughout.

TOMAH MAN FOUND DEAD BEHIND BAR HEAD BLOWN OFF

TOMAH, Wis., April 11.—(Special.)—Mystery surrounds the death of George Knick, 25, saloonkeeper, who was found behind his bar at 1 o'clock this afternoon with his head blown off by a shotgun, although Chief of Police Preston inclines to believe that the tragedy was accidental. No one was in the saloon when the shot was fired. Persons who arrived a few minutes later, summoned by the report of the gun, found that Knick had been instantly killed.

A man named Wiener is being sought by the police to clear up the mystery. He is said to have left the saloon with a companion just before the shot, and to have returned at the sound of the report. He had not been located at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Knick and his older brother, Samuel, were owners of the saloon at 816 Superior avenue. They lived on the second floor of the building. Samuel Knick was upstairs at his dinner when his brother was killed.

No reason is known to have existed to make a foundation for a suicide theory of Knick's death. He is said to have been in an unusually cheerful frame of mind during the morning.

West Avenue Methodist
Rev. J. E. Watson, at the West Avenue Methodist church, speaking on The Holy Catholic Church, said in part: "The word Catholic came into use among Christians to distinguish the Gentile, or universal church from the Jewish, or national church. The principle in the idea of the Catholic, or Universal church, is that it extends the hand of fellowship to every believer in Jesus Christ, whatever his creed or the form of the organization to which he belongs."

Said the speaker: "The church is much more than a respectable institution that must be supported in a community, for if it does not contribute much more of value to the community than it takes from it there is no excuse for its existence. Its value depends upon the devotion and unity of its members."

MRS. HENRY MUTH MOURNS TRAGIC DEATH OF COUSINS

Crogran Family Drowned at Winona Yesterday when Auto Tips Off Flooded Road

Mrs. Henry Muth, wife of the manager of the City Grocery, 509 Main street, was mourning today over the loss of four cousins, comprising the entire family of Benedict Crogran, a farmer near Galesville, who were drowned when their automobile tipped off a water-covered road at the east approach to the Winona high bridge yesterday afternoon.

Crogran, his wife, his son Donald and daughter Ellen were the victims. Crogran was 30, his wife, 29, and his son and daughter two and five years old, respectively.

The accident occurred when Crogran refused to heed a warning not to traverse that portion of the road which was under water. It is believed he steered off the road after striking the submerged portion.

Two of the bodies were found inside the overturned car when the Winona fire department located it, with grapples last night. They were the bodies of Mrs. Crogran and her daughter. Crogran's body and that of the baby had not been found at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Crogran was a prosperous young farmer living near Galesville. He was the owner of 160 acres of the best farm land in Trempealeau county. The family was on its way to pay a surprise visit to Crogran's parents in Winona when the tragedy occurred.

Many a man fails to hear the knock of opportunity because he is busy doing a little "knocking" on his own account.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN CLUB DEMANDS NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

Committee of Members Condemns Old Brick Structure; Club Takes Matter to Council

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., April 11.—(Special.)—The committee appointed by the City club to make a survey of public school buildings here submitted their report at a special meeting Friday.

The committee consisted of M. R. Munson, Charles Grelle, Nicholas Gunderson and F. J. Arlaine.

Their recommendation is that the building be torn down and a new modern public school building be erected on the same grounds.

A committee consisting of Charles Grelle, F. J. Antaine and Nicholas Gunderson were appointed to confer with the board of education and city council to get them to work in harmony on the project.

When cross, feverish and sick give "California Syrup of Figs"

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

If Too Fat Get More Fresh Air

BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET AND REDUCE YOUR WEIGHT. TAKE OIL OF KOREIN.

Lack of fresh air it is said weakens the oxygen carrying power of the blood, the liver becomes sluggish, fat accumulates and the action of many of the vital organs are hindered thereby. The heart action becomes weak, work is an effort and the beauty of the figure is destroyed.

Fat put on by indoor life is unhealthy and if nature is not assisted in throwing it off a serious case of obesity may result.

When you feel that you are getting too stout, take the matter in hand at once. Don't wait until your figure has become a joke and your health ruined through carrying around a burden or unsightly and unhealthy fat.

Spend as much time as you possibly can in the open air; breathe deeply, and get from City Book and Drug Store, 500 Main street, Columbian Pharmacy, 123 South Fourth street, a box of oil of korein capsules; take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself every few days and keep up the treatment until you are down to normal. Oil of korein is absolutely harmless, is pleasant to take, helps the digestion and even a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight.

MILK DELIVERY NORMAL

CHICAGO, April 11.—Milk deliveries in Chicago snapped back to normal yesterday following announcement that the Borden company, the one big firm to hold out at the "milk strike" conference, had signed up to pay the farmers the demanded $1.55 per 100 pounds.

Probably the majority of men would be lazy were it not for the fact that they must either get busy or die of starvation.

A QUICK, SURE WAY TO END CATARRH

Catarrh Germs Breed By Millions In Air Passages of Nose and Throat. Just One Way to Drive Them Out.

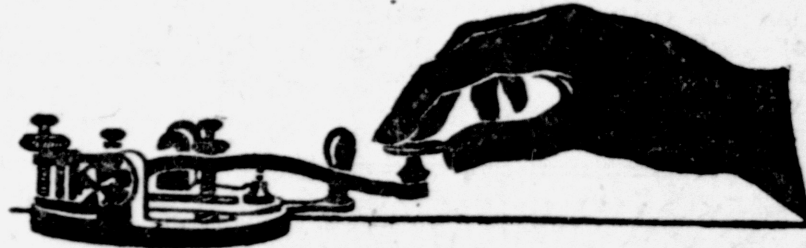

To stop catarrh for good you must drive from your system the germs that cause catarrh and that are now feeding and growing fat upon the swollen inflamed mucous membranes of your nose and throat.

A splendid means of destroying catarrh germs and overcoming catarrh has long been recognized by physicians in the well known oil of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mey) and it is now a very simple matter for any catarrh sufferer to use it with splendid results at home, by breathing its air through a little hard rubber inhaling device which leading druggists are supplying with each large complete treatment. Just pour a few drops of the oil of Hyomei into this inhaler, place it between your lips and then breathe naturally and the pleasant smelling antiseptic, germ killing air will penetrate deep down into every fold and crevice of your raw, sore nose, throat and lungs and give you quick certain relief, opening up the air passages, making you breathe easily, stopping the inflammation and discharge and driving from your system every catarrh germ that has found lodgement there.

If you want to be free from every symptom of catarrh, are tired of trying one thing after another without benefit go to any reliable drug store hereabouts and get a complete Hyomei inhaler outfit, use it every day for a few minutes and if it does not drive the catarrh germs out of your system and give you real lasting relief from Catarrh, your druggist will give you your money back.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

BY ARTHUR WALLACE PEACH

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Merriman was seated at the front window of his club. The Common spread out before him in its dim promise of spring did not brighten his thoughts. He was weary of the city and all it suggested. Then came the thought that made him sit up—an idea that offered the spice of adventure and the unusual.

Far up in the northern part of Maine he had a camp which was the pride of his heart. For the last three seasons, it had been broken into by thieves in spite of the man he had hired to look after it. Much valuable stuff had been stolen, and the preceding fall he had told his old guide, Acton, that if he did not stop the thieving he would lose his job. Acton had been excited, for the money Merriman paid him was a large sum, and the old man did not want to lose it. He had promised to do everything he could to save the camp; but Merriman was half suspicious that the old fellow might be mixed up in the looting.

So he decided to make a flying trip to the camp earlier than he had ever gone before and see what he could learn by being on the premises.

He made his preparations and cleaned up his business affairs in a day. At the close of the next, he reached the lake into which the river flowed on which his camp was located. From the boathouse where he had stored his boats he got out one of his fastest canoes, and, after stowing in it the necessary articles, headed toward his camp. Half-way up the river he camped, and the next morning went on. He figured that his coming would not only be a surprise to Acton, but to any of the thieves who were accustomed to plunder the camps of the region as soon as the snow left.

When he reached camp, the first signs he saw were tracks of small feet from the door of the camp to the dock. "Boys—that's just who they are; probably young rascals from the logging camps," he muttered as he examined the imprints swiftly.

He followed the tracks to the door of the big bungalow-like structure that was the main camp, and saw that the tracks seemed to go straight in.

Merriman groaned as he thought of what would confront him when he opened the door everything in disorder and almost everything that was valuable at all missing.

He opened the door and stepped in.

Just what he expected! Things were even more upset than they were last time.

"I'll fire that Acton, and, by George, I'll stay here all next winter! It's a blooming shame!" he exclaimed savagely.

Angry and disgusted he threw off his coat and hat and began an attempt to bring some kind of order out of the chaos. The dust rose and mingled with the sweat on his face. He rubbed the mixture off with still dirtier hands.

"I look like Sam Hill, but I'm going to make this place look like home and find out what has been taken," he grunted as he passed a mirror.

Suddenly a shadow filled the room, he turned.

In the doorway, stood a girl, straight as a reed and graceful as a fawn on the verge of flight. Merriman's quick but astonished eyes rested a moment only on the general outline she made in the frame of the door. His eyes went to her face and he saw—he was looking into the blue end of an automatic revolver!

"I don't wonder you are astonished, you dreadful thief," a clear, sweet, but very steady, voice enunciated slowly. "Put on your coat and come with me. I guess we've got you this time."

Then Merriman remembered that a man with his mouth wide open is not at his best, and he immediately closed his. The girl evidently regarded him as a thief, but who she was he had not the slightest idea.

Suddenly it occurred to him that here was a chance for adventure—an adventure with a fair young goddess of the north woods. He would follow the lure, no matter where it led him.

He began to draw on his coat, studying her meanwhile on the pretext of being afraid of what she might do with the blue automatic. Her eyes were clear and bright and steady, albeit her face was a trifle pale. Into her paleness, however, came a glow of color as she observed his evident respect for her preparedness.

"Now put your hands above your head and come out!" she ordered. Merriman, enjoying the sensation of obeying such a voice, even in such a trying situation, did as she directed.

"Now go down to the dock. Get into that canoe. Take the bow—with your back toward me!" she commanded.

He followed her directions implicitly.

The canoe left the shore, and under the impulse of a pair of vigorous young arms began to pick up speed.

"I wonder where I'm headed for now," thought Merriman. "I wonder if they have lady sheriffs up here this early. Well, here goes. I'm already beginning to be glad I'm living."

He looked back at her once and saw a vision of a full-throated, rosy girl, arms round yet muscular, driving the paddle like an Indian expert, the automatic within easy grasp in the pocket of her jacket.

A mile or so down the river, she turned the canoe, and, paddling it backward to the shore, jumped out and ordered him to do likewise.

A path ran from the bank back, and not far away Merriman could see the faint outlines of a shack. The adventure was opening into a new phase, and he began to think seriously of what was up.

At her orders, he proceeded toward the shack, and as they drew nearer she whistled shrilly and called: "Father! I have him!"

Then Merriman received his second distinct shock of that eventful afternoon. In the doorway of the shack appeared the wasted, bent figure of his old guide, Acton, who swayed and grasped the door as he recognized his employer.

"Girl, girl, what have you done? This is Mr. Merriman!" he almost shrieked.

She moved slowly forward, her face grown pale, her eyes wide open. Then, as Merriman turned from greeting his stricken guide and held out his hand to her, she drew back hastily and her hands went to her face to hide her distress.

"It's all right," he assured her. "I'm glad to find my camp was so well guarded. I ought to apologize to you for deceiving you, but I was tremendously astonished when you appeared. Besides, I welcomed the chance of a new adventure. I'm tired of the city, and that's one reason why I came here so early."

Later, while he and his old guide were smoking before the cheerful fireplace, and his fair captor was cooking the supper, Merriman heard the solution of the mystery.

She was Acton's daughter. She had grown up in a village on the coast and recently had studied to become a nurse. When her father fell ill, she had come back to the camp to take care of him. She had found that his anxiety for the safety of the camp weighed heavily on his mind and she had volunteered to go up each day and see that everything was all right.

One thing still puzzled Merriman, and he asked the girl why the place was so upset.

She hesitated and blushed as she answered. "Well, when I first went there it was—so—so—"

"I understand," Merriman laughed. "It needed a good spring cleaning! I agree with you. Now, I want both of you to go with me to the camp. Jeb, this has been your home for a good many years, but I want you to leave it; you need somebody to look out for you, and I must say I am in the same fix. Will you take charge of us?" He turned to the girl.

She laughed confusedly. "As long as you are meek as you were today, I'll be willing to be responsible for your behavior!" she said.

Some people never succeed in finding out which side of their bread is buttered until they drop it.

THE "ENDLESS CHAIN"
DANGER OF CATARRH

S. S. S. the Proper Safeguard

Catarrh is the offspring of "colds." It is a "cold" in its chronic form. The air is filled with bacteria, which is taken into the mouth and nose through the process of breathing. When the body is in a healthy condition no harm results. But with our modern methods of indoor living and sedentary occupations, the mucous membranes are usually not able to "throw-off" this harmful bacteria, making catarrh a very common ailment. These germs breed and multiply, causing inflammation, the blood rushes to the membranes to fight off the bacilli. When the blood is in a vigorous condition its "defensive" efforts are successful. Otherwise the cold "hangs-on"—turns into catarrh. Catarrh is a chronic inflammation of the mucous membranes. Mucous membranes are the lining on all the internal cavities of the body. Get that? ALL cavities! There is the "endless chain" element of danger. If allowed to run on catarrh will affect not only the nose, but the throat and ear, making you liable to deafness, pulmonary and other troubles. Local applications are useless. The only correct way to treat this dread disease is to purify the blood. The surest way to purify the blood is to take S. S. S., which has been the standard blood medicine for fifty years. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable compound. It will not injure the most delicate stomach. You can get S. S. S. at every reputable drug store. We have an expert Medical Department, which will be glad to give you any special advice you may desire without charge. Write the Swift Specific Company, Dept. 42, Atlanta, Georgia.

The Standard Remedy in Countless Homes

Relieves Constipation Easily Without Gripping or Discomfort.

Indigestion and constipation are two conditions that are closely related and the cause of much physical suffering.

The tendency to indulge one's appetite is more or less general and most people suffer at one time or another from rebellion of the overtaxed organs of digestion and elimination. A pleasantly effective remedy, that will quickly relieve the congestion of poisonous stomach waste and restore regularity, is the compound of simple laxative herbs sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a mild, pleasant laxative tonic, free from opiates or narcotic drugs, and has been the standard household remedy in thousands of homes for many years.

Mrs. Oliver Young, Merrill, Wis., writing to Dr. Caldwell, says, she knows of nothing so effective for regulating the stomach and bowels; since taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin she feels ten years younger; her work seems easier and she has regained her appetite.

Gentlemen: The following named person has been appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Herman Pammel, late, a member of the town board of the town of Shelby: Herman Roesler, La Crosse, Wis., R. No. 1.

I, G. Egger, town clerk of the town of Shelby in said county, hereby certify the foregoing statement signed by me is true.

G. EGGLER.
Dated this 23rd day of March, 1916.

By Supervisor Moran:
To the Honorable Chairman and Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen: Your committee on buildings and grounds beg leave to report having met on January 8, 1916.

The matter of telephone service at the court house was taken up and considered at some length; further information was called for from the telephone companies and the committee decided to take another week's time to deliberate on the matter before making any changes. On this date the jail was visited and prisoners were checked. Your committee made a careful study of the lower floor of the jail building in particular, in order to decide as to what improvements and changes were to be recommended as necessary to put the building in a sanitary and satisfactory condition.

A second meeting was held at the court house on January 15. The forenoon was taken up in considering the possible changes to be made in the telephone service, the matter was discussed with the managers of the two companies interested, as well as with the officers to be served, it being finally decided to retain the present system, with the exception of discontinuing a few phones which amounted to a saving of about $9.00 per month. An afternoon session was held at the county jail. The proposed improvements and changes there were gone over in detail, the plumbing work with Mr. Baker and the building proper with Mr. Bucholz, for the purpose of getting reliable estimates on the probable cost of making such improvements, specifications and estimates on the work to be prepared and submitted later. On this date arrangements were made with the V. Tausche Hardware company for the installation of a two inch brass hand rail on each side of the stairway at the east entrance of the court house, the cost to be $43.25.

Your committee met at the court house on March 4, chiefly for the purpose of considering specifications and estimates on cost of the proposed jail improvements. The following estimates being at hand: Plumbing and heating not to exceed $1,800, kitchen improvements $800, weather stripping and caulking of doors and windows $500, making a total estimated cost of about $3,100.

While your committee strongly favors these improvements, we most respectfully advise and request that your honorable body meet at the jail some time during the day for a personal inspection, and that we may more fully explain the improvements contemplated. All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. H. MORAN,
A. C. KAYLOR,

The inmates being well fed and the sick receive the best of care and no complaints were made. We were unable to find any filth and squalor in the outbuildings. The cattle all looked fine and clean. We were more than pleased at this inspection, therefore your committee comments the overseer and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine, in the manner they care for the poor and in the way they administer the sick.

By Supervisor Guenther:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen: Your committee on poor and insane to whom was referred the discussion at the last session of this board relating to improvements at the County Alms house, to change the lighting system, second better ventilation, third enlarging the kitchen.

We beg leave to report that we carefully considered the needs of said improvements as herein and above stated.

Your committee recommends that the present system of lighting be changed to an A. C. electric current, as to ventilation in the kitchen we recommend that a suction fan of proper size be installed and no further changes made at this time. We find that the same may be obtained for a cost not to exceed in all One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00).

We therefore recommend that the County Board appropriate such sum as may be necessary not to exceeding the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), and to that end offer the attached resolution.

Resolved, by the County Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, that there be, and hereby is appropriated, out of such moneys not otherwise appropriated, such sum as may be necessary not exceeding the sum of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000.00), for the purpose of construction of a lighting line from the end of the St. Michael's Orphanage on the Mormon Coulee road to the poor farm, a distance of a mile and a quarter, wiring in the Alms house and adjoining buildings and a suction fan of 18 inches in diameter.

Resolved further, that the chairman of this board appoint a special committee of four with full power and authority to install the same and to do any and all acts necessary for such purpose.

Resolved further, that the money aforesaid shall be paid out in the order of the chairman and clerk of this Board whenever said special committee shall notify them that said work has been satisfactorily completed and accepted.

Respectfully submitted,

By Supervisor Moore:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of La Crosse County, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen: Whereas on the 4th day of March, 1916, the State Aid Road and Bridge committee of La Crosse county, made an inspection of the certain bridge in said county, situated on the East French road, a part of the prospective state highway of said county, and known as the La Belle bridge, a bridge connecting the towns of Campbell and Onalaska.

And whereas said committee at said inspection found said bridge in a condition of delapidation and disrepair, highly dangerous to public travel.

And whereas said committee as the result of its investigation is of the opinion that the repairs necessary to put said bridge in a condition safe for travel would involve the expenditure of a large sum of money, and that the permanent value of said bridge as so repaired would not warrant the expenditure of so large a sum of money for repairs, and that the interests of the towns of Campbell and Onalaska, and the county of La Crosse will be best subserved by the building of a new bridge.

And whereas the town of Campbell has heretofore appropriated the total sum of $600.00 dollars, and the county of La Crosse and the State of Wisconsin, the total sum of $900.00 dollars for the purpose of the building of said bridge.

Now, therefore, by reason of said premises and the great danger to public to travel of the present condition of said bridge and the urgent need of action on the part of this board in respect thereto, be it resolved by this board that the road and bridge committee of this county be and they hereby are authorized and empowered to provide for the immediate building of said bridge, either by the letting of a contract with a third party for the building thereof or by day labor under the supervision of the county highway commissioner of La Crosse county, as said committee in its discretion may decide.

And be it further resolved that the Town of Onalaska be required to appropriate and pay the sum of money said town is by law required to contribute to the building of the foresaid joint bridge.

Respectfully submitted,
A. N. MOORE.

SIXTEEN OUT FOR CROSS COUNTRY RUN AT THE "Y"

Sixteen men answered the call of the road last night and turned out for the first cross country run of the season at the Y. M. C. A. The men assembled at the association shortly before seven o'clock and took a jaunt to Seventh and Vine and back, a total distance of eighteen blocks, or approximately one and one-half miles. The runs will be a regular part of the association program, and will probably be held on each Monday night. Election of a captain and lieutenants for squads will take place at a subsequent meeting.

Returning to the association, the runners "fed" and listened to solos by Carrol Robb and A. R. Mitchell. Then a singfest was held.

S. AND S. BOWLERS WIN ROLLOFF WITH THE DOERFLINGERS

S. and S. bowlers are better than the Doerflingers. That was proved last night at the Lotus alleys when the teams met to roll off a tie from the recent Tri-State tournament. The cagers won last night by the narrow margin of 55 pins and were guests at the Lotus cafe of the losers.

COLUMBIAN SETS RECORD IN TANK 2:20 IN 2:23 3-5

NEW YORK, April 11.—A new world's record for the 220 yard swim is today credited to Herbert E. Vollmer of Columbia university and the New York Athletic club. He went the distance in 2:23 3-5 at the A. A. U. meet here last night, shattering his own former record of 2:24 4-5 made in February. Perry McGilivray of Chicago was second.

TINKER WIELDS KNIFE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 11.—Manager Joe Tinker of the Chicago Cubs, took out his pruning knife again Monday and cut Outfielder Pete Allison off his payroll, sending the youngster to New Orleans of the Southern league. This cuts the Cub roster down to twenty-six men. A few more releases are looked for soon.

TRACK MEN AT HIGH GET DOWN TO REAL LABOR

After a week of more or less strenuous exercise, mainly on the sprints and distance running, Horne's track men have now entered the real grind and things began to look interesting last night. Class "A" sprinters were kept half an hour longer at their work and were then sent on a four lap jog to limber up for some real racing tonight. The distance men were sent around once for speed and then began the longest workout of the year with six laps of hard "digging." High jumpers led by Regat and Schall are well above the five foot mark already and before long hope to round into shape where they will approach the school record.

The pole vaulters are taking it easy for the time being, nothing over eight feet being attempted. Some good freshmen material is out and fast making good in this difficult department. Lescock and King still lead in the weights, though Lyden and Regat are hurling the discus well. Hurdling was started last night and with Captain Kulevski and Kelly entered, La Crosse has little to fear in those events. The running broad jump is practically the only event in which the school is without a consistent performer, but Denney and a few others are working hard and may do something before the year is up.

Squad "B" under Coach Puckett is receiving some hard work also. While naturally there are only a few of his class entered in the field events, Puckett has a large squad of distance men on his hands and they were given about a mile and a half jog out the state road yesterday in first preparation for the "Hare and Hound" chases to follow afterward. W. D. Mayo has taken charge of the sprints in this division.

PENNSY TO GET STARS

PHILADELPHIA, April 11.—Frank Sloman of San Francisco of the scholastic 440 yard record and Brooke Brewer of Washington, D. C., who beat Howard Drew in the fifty yard dash, will enter the University of Pennsylvania, according to reports here today.

SOX YANS STINGY

OTTUMWA, Iowa, April 11.—The White Sox Yannigans, with Joe Benz whipping them across in great shape, played championship ball here yesterday and held the Ottumwa club hitless. The seconds have won their last fourteen games.

HOLD INDIANS' FUNDS

"Some Year Ahead" Says Mr. Tener. "Aye, Aye, Sir." Follows Johnson

A banner year in baseball is predicted by President Tener of the National league and President Johnson of the American league in statements prepared exclusively for the United Press. On the eve of the opening of the baseball season tomorrow, the heads of the two leagues predicted close races for the pennant and a great revival of interest in the game. The statements follow:

BY JOHN K. TENER
(President of the National League.)

NEW YORK, April 11.—It is far from an unusual or new prediction for me to state that I believe baseball will enjoy an exceptionally prosperous and successful year this season. This is the opinion of all baseball men, generally and freely made.

The reasons for baseball men thinking it will be a great year for the national game are found in the unprecedented prosperity of the entire country and the ideal conditions existing in the baseball world. It is only natural to expect that such conditions will produce extremely gratifying results in baseball. What is more natural than that the average American citizen, with plenty of money in his pocket, should patronize the national sport at every possible opportunity, especially when there is nothing in its management to which he can take exception?

From my own personal contact with business men everywhere I am led to believe that interest in baseball has been greatly stimulated by recent developments and occurrences. I am willing to take the judgment of the average business man on this subject, as I think his opinion in most everything that interests us as Americans is a good barometer on which to base a judgment. I believe the public anticipates with more genuine interest and fervor the opening of the professional baseball season this spring than it has evinced for years.

Conditions Settled
And there is a reason for this advanced interest. Conditions are settled, there are no dividing agencies in the field, harmony exists among the professional ranks and therefore the public is assured that more good baseball will be seen on the diamond this year than has obtained for several years. I am very much pleased with the existing conditions in the National league. Naturally we expect a big year. Most of the clubs have been strengthened in playing material and a strong fight for the pennant is sure to ensue from the playing of the first to the last game. Personally, I expect to see a keen, spirited fight for the championship. Looking at the teams as they lined up in the south it is absolutely beyond the ken of prophecy to say which club will win.

Amalgamation Causes Interest
An unusual amount of interest has been injected into the senior league by reason of the amalgamation which took place between the Chicago National and Federal league clubs. The public is quite alive to the situation as presented in the Windy City and many conjectures are expressive as to whether the injection of the Federal league talent into the Chicago National league club will make the consolidated team a strong contender for the championship.

Several other National league clubs have added to their personnel of players with the expectation that the acquisition will be of material benefit to them in playing strength. Personally I have no doubt that some of these players will prove of value to the clubs which acquired their services.

Everything considered, I cannot help feeling exceptionally optimistic over the prospect of the baseball season of 1916. If nothing unforeseen happens to complicate the otherwise rosy outlook the stage is set for the banner year in baseball.

SPEARS DEFEATS FERRIS IN MATCH AT LOTUS PARLORS

La Crosse billiard enthusiasts last night saw a wonderful exhibition of the 14-2 game, when George Spears and Charles L. Ferris, nationally known cue stars, played at the Lotus parlors in a 300 point match, which Spears won 300-178, with a high run of 62.

Spears, whose appearance here was the second, lived up to his reputation as a masse artist, while Ferris displayed great skill.

The billiardists gave an hour exhibition of fancy billiard and pocket billiard shots after their match.

INVITATIONS SENT FOR NORMAL MEET

Invitations to thirty-five high schools in this section of the state to participate in the third annual track and field meet which will be held on the normal field on May 13 were sent out yesterday by Physical Director Sputh. It is expected that the number of schools to be represented here this year will be larger than ever before.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The district court of appeals on Monday enjoined Secretary Lane, Indian Commissioner Sells and United States Treasurer Burke from expending $160,000 of the funds of the Chippewa tribe of Minnesota. The decision reversed the lower court.

BOSTONS FAVORITES AS OPENING HEARS INDIANS HOPEFUL

Sale of Speaker to Cleveland Reverses Figures on the Books for Chances of Red Hose

NEW YORK, April 11.—With everybody agreeing that the season at hand is bound to be the greatest ever from a playing standpoint as well as the most profitable to the owners, sixteen major league clubs will square away in their fight for the flags in the National and American leagues tomorrow.

On the eve of battle the two Boston clubs are generally regarded as the best running starts for the buntings. What the Red Sox did to their chances when Lannin let the peerless Speaker go to Cleveland is a matter of conjecture. The first thing to happen on the books was a change in the Boston betting odds from 8 to 5 for a finishing in front, to 3 to 1 against. All of which will help the race in the American as the Indian outfit at Cleveland was weak and considered in the ruck. Now, with Speaker hammering in a few runs every now and then, and cutting off the opposition at the plate, Cleveland will be up. The balance is likely to give the flag to the club that wins ninety games, the dopesters figure. The White Sox and Detroit are also looked upon with favor in the Johnsonian organization.

In the National, the Braves figure thusly: The club stacks up as well on players as any other in the bunch, and they have Stallings and Evers. When the going gets fast that pair can be figured on to keep up the massed frontal attack day after day, no matter what the pace.

Advance sales of seats in New York make good the forecast of the leaders for a prosperous season. When Walter Johnson, the main battery of the Washington club, unlimbers on the Yanks tomorrow afternoon, one of the biggest first day crowds of years is expected to be on hand.

He who thinks only of himself has very little to think about.
